FINAL CONFERENCE AND TRANSNATIONAL PROJECT MEETING

The Sticks'n'Stones project's lifetime has almost come to an end. But this is far from being sad news! All materials that have been developed are now ready to be used! The different activities for teachers, students and parents are located in the project's website, and you can also access them through the e-platform: <https://sticksnstones.eu/en/>

During the 24th and 25th November the project partners met in Ostrava, Czech Republic to participate in the final conference of the project. Teachers, parents and other interested stakeholders were invited to the conference to have a general presentation of the project and to participate in reflective sessions based on bullying and cyberbullying. The event was a great success, whereby all the partners had the opportunity to listen to the comments and points of view from all participants.

The next day, the partnership met to officially close the project, make a general review of the activities and talk about the last steps to be taken regarding dissemination, quality, implementation and financial activities.

We want to thank all the participants and different entities that have been involved in the project within these two years and we hope now you can enjoy and learn a lot with the available free resources that we have developed!
